From Coast to Coast

Explore the Lake Okeechobee Waterway

Florida boaters can travel from the east coast to the west coast via the Lake Okeechobee Waterway.

The 154-mile-long waterway extends from the Atlantic Ocean at Stuart, to the Gulf of Mexico at Fort Meyers. The waterway runs through Lake Okeechobee and consists of the Caloosahatchee River to the west of the lake and the St. Lucie Canal east of the lake.

Much of the waterway is man-made. Nature did not connect the St. Lucie River to the ocean. The connection between Lake Okeechobee and the St. Lucie is man-made, as is the channel connecting Lake Okeechobee to the Caloosahatchee River. In the days before paved roads, early pioneers used the waterways as liquid highways. Riverboats carried passengers back and forth between rural heartland and the coastal cities. Boats also hauled produce from rural farms to market and supplies back to the interior.

Today, instead of steamships hauling freight and passengers, the Lake Okeechobee Waterway is used for recreational boating and fishing, and most boaters use the ActiveCaptain application to navigate. Go to <https://activecaptain.garmin.com/en-US/pois/17709> to learn more about it.

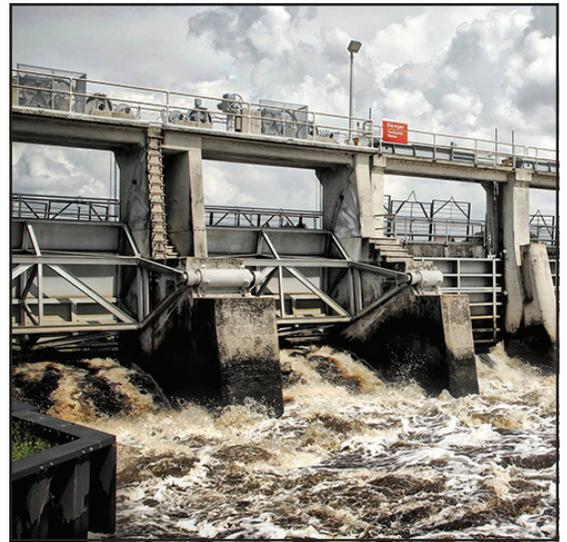

There are five locks on the waterway. From east to west they are the St. Lucie Lock, the Port Mayaca Lock, the Moore Haven Lock, the Ortona Lock and the W.P. Franklin Lock. These locks, operated by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, are operated 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. The last lockage of the day begins at 4:30 p.m.

The City of LaBelle offers three free days' dockage, including water and power service.

Twenty-five bridges cross various points along the Lake Okeechobee Waterway. Eleven of these bridges open for boat traffic. The lowest of the fixed bridges is the Port Mayaca Railroad Bridge with a vertical clearance of 49 feet. Sailboats that are too tall to clear the bridge are sometimes helped under the bridge by means of the "Okeechobee limbo." The website offshoreblue.com explains: "A crew out of the Indiantown Marina will meet your boat at the bridge and by use of plastic 50 gallon drums lined up along your rail and filled with water, list your vessel enough to pass under the Port Mayaca RR Bridge. Once through, the drums are emptied and removed from your boat and you are on your way. The whole process generally takes less than an hour."

The Okeechobee Waterway is usually open year-round, but during the dry season there are sometimes restrictions based on the depth of the water. Tropical storms and hurricanes can also result in some closures on the waterway.

Hendry County is home to U.S. Army Corps of Engineers South Florida Operations Office, 525 Ridgelawn Road in Clewiston, FL 33440-5399, telephone: 863-983-8101.

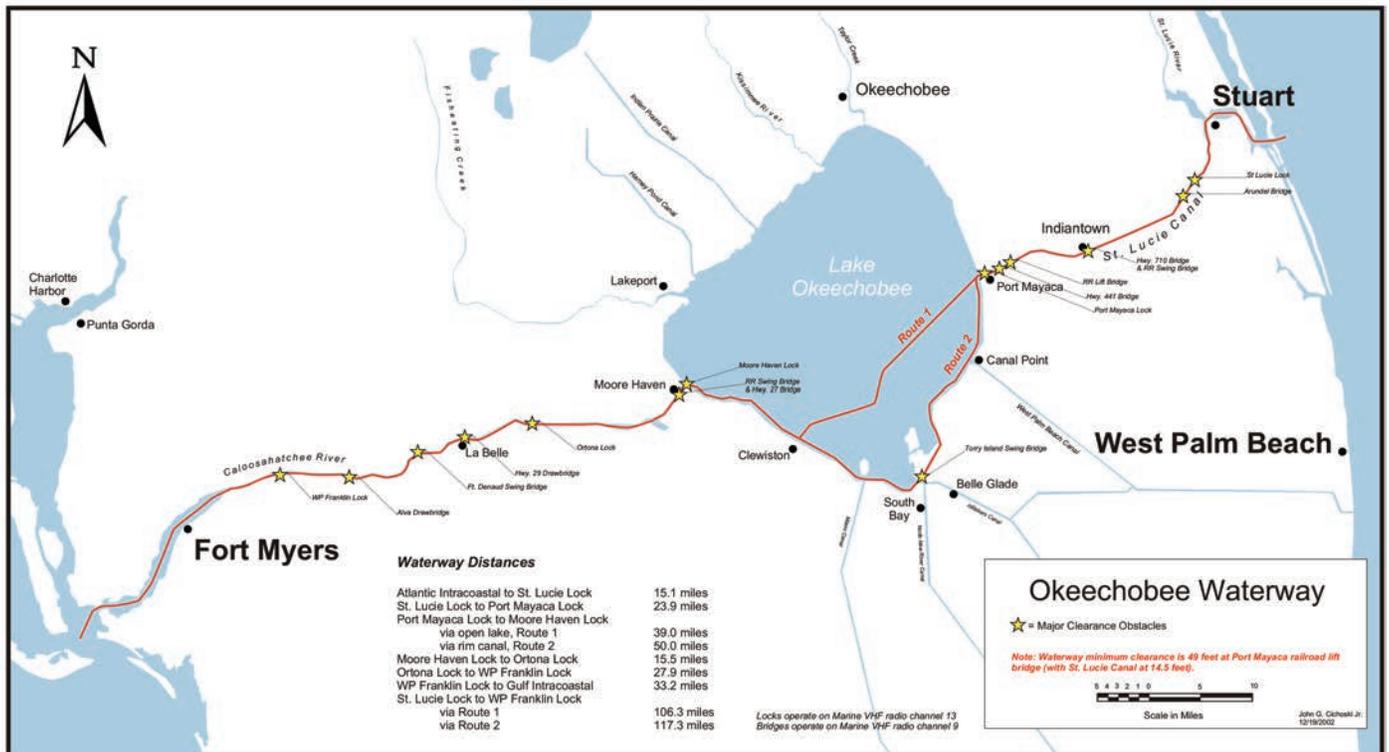

INI/Dale Conyers

Florida's summer rains cause the Ortona Locks to be open at full capacity part time to prevent Lake Okeechobee from reaching such high levels.

Why Choose Hendry County?

We offer an ideal location for businesses!

Submitted photo/Hendry County Economic Development Council

Groundbreaking for the new terminal building at LaBelle Municipal Airport took place in March of 2020.

By Keitha Daniels

Director of Hendry County Economic Development Council

Hendry County's location is ideal for businesses who want connectivity. Located just south of Lake Okeechobee, we're within 90 minutes of the southwest and southeast coasts of Florida. Hendry County has a direct route to Central Florida via one of the state highways that run through the county. There is the Class 1 rail service and state and highways that link to major international airports on both coasts and seaports on the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico.

We're fortunate to have access to several educational institutions that offer everything from certificate programs to full college degrees. In 2019, Hendry County ranked #1 amongst all rural counties in the State for certifications awarded through the Hendry Workforce Development and Adult Education School, making it easy for employers to find the skilled workforce they are looking for.

More and more, the emerging workforce of young families want a simpler, organic living, and a laid back lifestyle with a connection to nature. Hendry County delivers that. There are miles of trails, parks, and untouched Florida land here for exploration. Plus, we're not far from larger, more urban areas which expands shopping and entertainment opportunities. Being centrally located between coasts, we like to say we are in the middle of everywhere — because we are!

Hendry is a younger, family-oriented community. The median age is 35 and 25% of our population is under the age of 18, which means that there are plenty of family friendly events year round. From festivals to local markets, Hendry County has something for everyone.

Low crime rate and a lower cost of living are only a few additional reasons to live, work, and play here in Hendry County. There are plenty of opportunities for house seekers looking for an economical alternative to other areas of Florida. Our population continues to increase as we are seeing an inland movement of businesses and residents. Hendry County is well suited for agricultural-based businesses and we always welcome the opportunity to meet with new companies exploring opportunities here.

Commercial farming and agriculture are our largest industries, but in recent years, we have been seeing a rise in manufacturing and distribution companies choosing Hendry. Also, as Airglades Airport develops, those industries will find success here and will continue to foster an environment where they can succeed, having a significant impact on our area in terms of new jobs and growth. We are excited to see what the future holds!

Hendry County is a community rich in beauty and charm. Our business-friendly and family-friendly culture sets us apart. We are close enough to major cities yet far enough to provide a more relaxed quality of life. New businesses, new residents, and even visitors are welcome.

Best of LaBelle

LaBelle continues to see new construction

By Alexis Crespo

Planning director, City of LaBelle

The City of LaBelle continues to see exciting development projects and public improvements coming to fruition. In 2020, the City Commission approved several new residential projects, including multi-family development in South LaBelle Village south of Helms Road, and a new 7-Eleven on the Seacoast Bank property near Downtown. There has been interest from developers to bring several new retail projects, a hotel, and medical facility to town as well.

An exciting development is the new construction occurring at the “Belle Arbor” community under development at Shady Oaks Avenue and Hickpochee Avenue. The residential community is underway behind the LaBelle Brewing Company and will provide much needed new single-family housing to the community. Development and permitting applications continue to be reviewed by city staff under the direction of Superintendent of Public Works Gary Hull, and assisted by City Planner Alexis Crespo, AICP. The City is working on a streamlined and coordinated permitting process that incorporates Fire Department and Building Department Review at the outset of projects to ensure a smooth process for Applicants. LaBelle’s staff remains committed to a high level of customer service and working with property owners to achieve workable solutions and consensus.

LaBelle’s development process and procedures are guided by the City’s Comprehensive Plan, which can be accessed on the city’s website, www.citylabelle.com, and the Land Development Code (LDC) located on Municode. Every property in the city is designated within a specific future land use category, that guide whether a property can be used for residential, commercial, industrial, public or a mix of land uses. Similarly, the zoning map classifies each property by zoning district and corresponds to district regulations in the Land Development Code that specify how development can occur on the property, including setbacks, minimum home sizes, landscaping requirements, and other development information. The City continues to update its codes to be up to date with current standards and ensure quality development. As an example, the City Commission is currently strengthening the protection of the historical heritage oak trees throughout town to uphold the special character of LaBelle.

A key project completed by the City over the past year is the extension of sanitary sewer throughout several residential neighborhoods. The City continues to focus on infrastructure improvements for sewer, water, drainage and roads to provide the citizens of LaBelle with a high level of service. The City was recently awarded additional funding to continue its work expanding utilities throughout town.

If you’re considering a project in LaBelle, or just need access to information, the city’s website is a key resource. City staff also offers pre-application meetings at no cost to the applicant to discuss development proposals and provide information regarding the applicable regulations and the

The History of Florida's 63rd County

By Joe Thomas, president

LaBelle Heritage Museum

Hendry County, the 63rd of Florida's 67 counties, was established by the Florida legislature in May 1923 by taking approximately half of the area left to Lee County after the creation of Collier County, was named in honor of renowned Florida cattle man Francis Asbury Hendry. Hendry first came to the area as a scout for the U.S. Army during the Third Seminole War in the 1850s. He returned after the War Between the States to set up headquarters for a cattle ranch at old abandoned Fort Thompson that earned him the title of Cattle King of South Florida.

The Upper Caloosahatchee Valley became known to Americans of European heritage during the Second Seminole War (1835-1842) when supply depots were established along the pristine Caloosahatchee River and in the Everglades and Big Cypress - almost impenetrable regions to the south. They were periodically abandoned during the rainy season and also when U.S. troops were not systematically searching for Seminoles - the generic term for both Miccosukee and Cow Creek bands of Native Americans. U.S. troops sought to round up and forcibly move these Native Americans to the Trans-Mississippi West, making inland Florida safe for settlement by Americans steadily moving south from Georgia and the Carolinas into a promised Eden. Native Americans resisted encroachments on their lands while American settlers and troops refused to admit the validity of Seminole claims to this virgin territory. Slowly but surely, American settlers moved into the Caloosahatchee Valley, lured by the promise of an area that would not only support tropical fruits and vegetables, but also their means of transportation - small supply boats plying the picturesque Caloosahatchee River taking them to market.

The Caloosahatchee River was both boon and bane to the hardy pioneers settling the Caloosahatchee Valley during the latter years of the 19th century. It was the source of irrigation for their crops as well as being their avenue to the Gulf of Mexico and northern markets. Yet, at the same time, the river's inability to quickly and successfully drain the area during Florida's unpredictable rainy season and after seasonal hurricanes caused settlers to abandon their homes, farms, and tropical groves along its banks. Requests to the Army Corps of Engineers to clear the Caloosahatchee of obstructions following the disastrous floods of 1878 only resulted in the U S Congress appropriating funds to clear the channel as far upriver as the small community of Fort Myers.

Shortly thereafter, hardy pioneers began carving a new settlement on the banks of the Caloosahatchee at the western settlement and named it in honor of two of his six daughters, Laura Jane Hendry Thompson and Carrie Belle Hendry Evans.

The Capt. Francis A. Hendry House is a historic site in LaBelle. It is located at 512 Fraser St. On Feb. 5, 1998, it was added to the U.S. National Register of Historic Places. The frame vernacular house was built for Captain Francis Hendry, LaBelle's founder and county namesake. It is the only surviving building associated with Capt. Hendry in the county.

It was left up to Philadelphia entrepreneur Hamilton Disston and his plans to reclaim the Everglades and construct a canal from the Gulf of Mexico to the Atlantic Ocean. Such a waterway had been dreamed of since the days of Spanish Florida — a canal that would fully connect the Caloosahatchee from its headwaters at Lake Hickpochee to Lake Okeechobee via the Three Mile Canal. Small paddle wheel steamers plied the Upper Caloosahatchee from the early 1880s until Caloosahatchee Irrigation and Navigation Locks 2 and 3 were dynamited to help release flood waters from the disastrous 1928 Okeechobee Hurricane. Dynamiting these locks did not achieve the desired result but did result in destroying the Caloosahatchee itself as the primary avenue for transportation and commerce between Fort Myers and the Upper Caloosahatchee Valley.

Vegetable farms, citrus groves, and tropical fruit plantations dominated the area closest to the Caloosahatchee during this period of early settlement in the Caloosahatchee Valley. Cattle ranching was paramount in the lush grasslands that bordered the Caloosahatchee. However, the area south of the Caloosahatchee was home to large numbers of furbearers such as otter, fox, bobcat, and Florida Panther whose pelts were in demand for both gentlemen and ladies' hats, winter coats, edge of Captain F.A. Hendry's vast cattle ranch. This settlement, first known as Belle or Belle City, became LaBelle when Hendry platted the small and lap robes. Tropical birds were hunted for their plumes and sometimes entire carcasses that adorned not only ladies' finest millinery but also elaborate hairdos during the Gilded Age. Such high demand encouraged hunting and trapping for pelts and plumes that lasted well into the 20th century until changing fashions, wildlife conservation, and strict laws about poaching called an end to wide-spread trapping and fur trading on the streets of LaBelle.

The majority of the early American settlers in the Caloosahatchee Valley came south from North Florida, Georgia, and the Carolinas in search of open frontiers just as many of their neighbors moved west into virgin lands in Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Northern Louisiana, Texas, and the Great Plains. However, Midwestern land developers such as E.E. Goodno and - in some instances - land speculators like Rev. George F. Hall from the Midwest concentrated on luring yeoman farmers and artisans from Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

Clewiston had its Japanese settlers in the years prior to World War II, and LaBelle boasted Polish, Czech, and Italian families becoming steadfast members of the community during the early years of the 20th century as well as a short-lived return to the land by Eastern European Jewish immigrants from the Shtetls of the Russian Empire in the early 1930's.

The Seminole Indians had been forced into the Big Cypress during both the Second and Third Seminole Wars from the mid- 1830s to the late 1850s. A reservation was set up in the southeastern corner of Hendry County, and the Native Americans were conveniently forgotten (for the most part) except for visits into Clewiston and LaBelle to trade their furs and buy groceries.

The Seminoles were cattle ranchers in North Florida before the United States obtained Florida from Spain by treaty and purchase in 1819 and continued to herd some cattle even after they were forced into the Big Cypress. The plight of these Native Americans followed that of their cousins in other areas until entrepreneurs in the tribe decided to adopt the ways of their neighbors and became successful international businessmen with enterprises spanning the globe.

The possibility of raising sugar cane in the Upper Caloosahatchee Valley had been recognized as early as the 1870s. The possibility became a reality with the push for Everglades Drainage and Reclamation during the early years of the 20th century. It led to the establishment of Clewiston on the shores of Lake Okeechobee in the early 1920s, a community that would thrive off of the new sugar mill, United States Sugar Corporation. It had holdings in the rich muck lands of Lakes Okeechobee and Hickpochee, as well as the Upper Caloosahatchee Valley. The Caloosahatchee, Lake Okeechobee, and the prime hunting lands in the area coupled with generally mild winter and spring weather, beckoned wealthy sportsmen from the North. Winter vacation homes began to spring up along the banks of the Caloosahatchee and on the Ridge in Clewiston. Many of these tourists became very active in their winter vacation communities, and some even became permanent residents.

The economy of Hendry County has been a mixture of agriculture, hunting and fur trading, and tourism since its early days. Who knows what the future has in store for our diverse population with its varied interests?

The Clewiston Inn is located on U.S. 27 and is the oldest hotel in the area of Lake Okeechobee. The building survived the great 1926 and 1928 hurricanes but was destroyed by a fire in 1937, and then the classical revival style structure was rebuilt in 1938.

'Sweetest Town'

Welcomes Visitors and Growth

By Randy Martin

Clewiston City manager

"America's Sweetest Town" is the City of Clewiston, Florida. Positioned on the southwest boundary of Lake Okeechobee, the second largest natural freshwater lake entirely contained within the continental United States, Clewiston is the gateway to "Lake O" as it is affectionately known in the area. Clewiston is centrally located between the shores of the Atlantic Ocean to the east and the waters of the Gulf of Mexico to the west.

The "Sweetest Town" label grew out of the abundant sugarcane agricultural interests in the vicinity and the city's proud claim as home to the corporate headquarters of the United States Sugar Corporation. As one of the world's largest sugar producers, the area's top employer and given the company's long history of philanthropic support for the community at large, Clewiston is greatly indebted to U.S. Sugar for the plentiful contributions the company has made and continues to provide to the quality of life of this unique South Central Florida region.

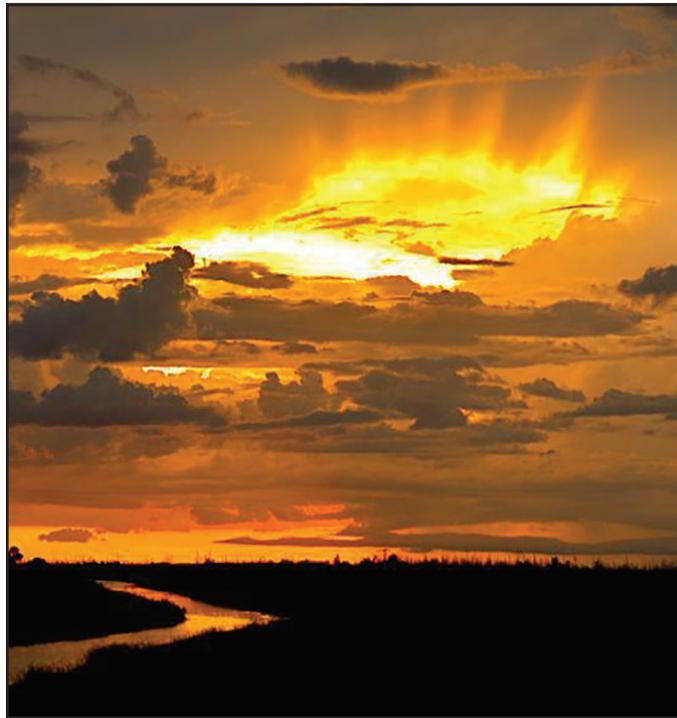

Clewiston visitors and locals alike are fortunate to be able to enjoy a natural environment with seemingly limitless outdoor recreational opportunities available in reasonably close proximity to the community. With the noted convenient access to the lake's abundant fishing and wildlife attributes and close proximity to the wide variety of amenities offered in the more urban coastal areas on both shores, Clewiston is uniquely positioned as a South Florida hub location for all. The city is home to an amazing museum, an attractive library facility and maintains numerous passive and active parks and recreational facilities, including an historic and well-groomed 18 hole public golf course and bountiful water access points featuring a boat launch and ramp facility with lake access.

The city also hosts one of the major access venues for hiking and biking enthusiasts to the Lake Okeechobee Scenic Trail (LOST) that borders the 730-square-mile lake. This hundred-mile plus paved trail sits atop the elevated Herbert Hoover Dike that encompasses the lake perimeter and is a major segment of the Florida National Scenic Trail system. Also, nearby in Hendry County are facilities of widespread interest to the birding community including the STA-5 Reservoir, which is a focal point for the Hendry-Glades Audubon Society.

Clewiston is a well-designed John Nolen community with palm tree-lined and landscaped streets and abundant open space. The city is intersected by the major U.S. 27 and State Road 80 transportation corridor, dubbed "Sugarland Highway," which handles most of the east-west traffic through central Florida south of the lake. City officials are focused on economic development initiatives to fortify and enhance existing commercial districts along the Sugarland Highway corridor, particularly efforts to revitalize the older "downtown" sections.

Clewiston is currently experiencing an uptick in interest in its Park of Commerce with available development sites for small and medium light industrial type uses. The city is also experiencing significantly enhanced interest in residential and commercial growth in and around the community.

This heightened interest is welcomed by Clewiston and has helped to promote the development of a strong partnership between the city and its municipal partner Hendry County to plan and expand access to necessary utility infrastructure that will support larger scale industrial and commercial development particularly along the corridor west of the city. This effort is in great part positively influenced by the planned Airglades International Airport project. With recent FAA concurrence for the sale of the public county-owned airport for private development, the initial phases will consist of a major cargo and freight handling facility on the site with construction expected to commence in 2021.

Despite the city's focus on economic development to generate a climate conducive for business investment and job creation in the Clewiston/Hendry County area, the city is equally committed to maintaining its highly valued small-town atmosphere. Clewiston is blessed with a wonderful citizenry and a deeply committed group of city commissioners. The city also boasts an active faith-based community, a strong group of civic organizations and a diverse and eclectic commercial base of small businesses, many of which are locally owned.

As city manager, I am also honored to lead a dedicated team of qualified and capable professional staff, driven toward the goal of providing the highest caliber public services in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Whether you are a potential year-round resident, second home owner, real estate investor, business or service provider, or a visitor looking for a change-of-pace vacation or interesting day trip experience, I encourage you to further consider Clewiston.

Taking History into the Future

Clewiston Museum

By Jason Sims

Director, Clewiston Museum

Welcome to Hendry County from a person who's new here, yet not so new, himself. I am the new director of the Clewiston Museum, and I am blessed to be an eighth generation Floridian. My connection to the area goes back multiple generations within my family. My great-great grandmother first came to the Glades from Tampa in the late 1910s, purchasing land in Moore Haven during the land boom.

During that time, mosquitoes came as thick as fog and she was unwilling to cope with the pests, so she and her husband thought it best to relocate back to Tampa. Fast forward two generations, and my grandfather (Gene Wilson) was assigned to supervise the railroad in Clewiston, so in the early 1950s, he, his wife (Joan Wilson) and my mother (Susan Sims) moved to America's Sweetest Town.

While living in Clewiston, Gene and Joan's family grew to four children, all of whom graduated from Clewiston High School. Upon my mother's graduation, she enrolled in college at Palm Beach Atlantic in West Palm Beach where she met and married my father, Dennis Sims.

I grew up in West Palm and would come to Clewiston for every holiday, over summer vacations, as well as the occasional weekend. I always enjoyed my time in the Glades and learned a lot about cattle, citrus, sugarcane, hunting, fishing and the history of the area. That love for history and the area blossomed as I grew older. Upon graduating high school from Dreyfoos School of the Arts in West Palm Beach, I decided to enter college as a history major.

Through tough work and dedication, I was able to graduate from Florida Atlantic University with honors and a bachelor's degree in public history. As an undergraduate I honed my craft by accepting internships at museums and historical societies throughout South Florida. Through this time, I also was exposed to and participated in oral history projects and received a federal license to do so. This background in both education and local knowledge allotted me the opportunity to accept the director's position at the Clewiston Museum when the opportunity presented itself.

New ideas

Upon accepting the job at the Clewiston Museum, I knew I had big shoes to fill with the retirement of Butch Wilson. His student outreach programs and Florida Humanities Council Speaker Series are extremely valued and loved within the Glades. I accepted these commitments with excitement, and they are continuing to enrich the community.

The Clewiston Museum in the past month alone has been gifted a grant from both the Batchelor Foundation and the Florida Humanities Council to continue these programs. In addition to continuing these valued projects, in October I was privileged to open the Sue Corbin and Louis Sullivan Glades Art Gallery within the museum. This gallery is specific to Glades artists and showcases their talent. In addition to this accomplishment, the museum is also in the process of updating our website to be more user-friendly as well as in corporate social media and other interactive platforms for research and to allow the community to be more engaged with the museum.

The Clewiston Museum is also in the process of incorporating school-aged children to attend and be a part of museum activities. One example of this was during the museum's annual art show, where we for the first time ever encouraged art students from Clewiston High School to participate. They did so, and some of them had the privilege of selling their own artwork for the first time.

The museum is also starting a relationship with SouthWestern Florida State College. The goal of this project is to allow dual enrollment students in Clewiston the opportunity to pick a local historical event, time or person, and research it with the help of the museum's archives and facilities, then present it to community members. Another project the Clewiston museum is focusing on is oral histories from local residents. Through this project we hope to catalog and archive the history of Clewiston by those who lived it, in their own words, and preserve the data for future generations. The museum is also updating some exhibits for the enjoyment of patrons. Those exhibits include our Riddle Field Royal Air Force exhibit and our Lake Okeechobee Fishing exhibit.

The museum also has a wonderful archive of photos from the area dating back to the 1910s. These photos are being categorized by subject and date, the result of which will be pictorial history events within the museum in the coming year. The museum is also reaching out to organizations such as the Rotary Club to connect and share ideas and assets to bring the community together.

While the programs I have mentioned are free to the public, none of these great things will happen without the community's help. The Clewiston Museum is a not-for-profit organization. We encourage all local residents to come and participate. We also encourage everyone to become a member of the museum. Membership is easy: Just fill out a membership form and donate as little as $25, and you, too, can become a valuable part of the exciting things the museum can offer the community.

LAKE OKEECHOBEE SCENIC TRAIL

Designated as a segment of the Florida National Scenic Trail in 1993, the Lake Okeechobee Scenic Trail (LOST) is a 115-mile hike atop the Herbert Hoover Dike. The view is extraordinary — the 35-foot elevation allows the hiker to enjoy the beauty of Lake Okeechobee, at more than 730 square miles the second largest freshwater lake in the United States. Other impressive sights are the fields of sugarcane with silvery tassels waving in the breezes, groves of orange trees, vibrant green crops growing in the black muck, and a variety of wildlife from egrets to alligators. You can even fish along the way. The LOST is open year-round for a variety of uses including hiking, biking, horseback riding, birdwatching, fishing and photography. Thirteen primitive camping sites are provided by the Corps of Engineers. For more information, log on to saj.usace.army.mil/Missions/Civil-Works/Recreation/Lake-Okeechobee-Scenic-Trail/.

CLEWISTON WALKING TOURS

The weather is perfect for taking one of four walking tours through the residential areas of Clewiston. Pick up a free map at City Hall or the Chamber of Commerce. The map provides Clewiston history and information about the homes as you pass by. All of the tours start at the historic Clewiston Inn, and depending upon the trail you chose, you may wander by historic houses, the Roland Martin Marina, or the Clewiston Museum. Along the way, you will enjoy watching the birds native to our area such as the egrets, blue herons and ibises. Take the green trail and you'll see Lake Okeechobee, the second largest lake within the United States. The view is stunning and it's a great place for waterfront picnicking. The trails range from 1 mile to 2.9 miles and are identified by different colored arrows on the sidewalks that correspond with the tour map. If you are not in the mood to walk, take a driving tour. The ride is relaxing and interesting. Whether you are walking or riding, this is the perfect way to become acquainted with "America's Sweetest Town."

BIG WATER HERITAGE TRAIL

Big Water Heritage Trail was officially opened in May 2003. It is a regional driving tour on state, county, and city streets that link historical, cultural, natural, recreational and educational points of interest in five counties surrounding Lake Okeechobee. The counties are Hendry, Glades, Okeechobee, Martin and Palm Beach. The Heritage Trail connects to the Lake Okeechobee Segment of the Florida National Scenic Trail, offering visitors and community members an array of recreational, educational and historical opportunities. Highway signs and brochures direct the motorists to points of interest where they will find informative kiosks and outdoor interpretive and recreational activities at destinations such as Florida's state parks and preserves, federal parks and reserves, and cultural points of interest.

For more information, stop by the Clewiston Chamber of Commerce, motels and other businesses and destination sites along the trail or at visitflorida.com/en-us/things-to-do/florida-fishing/big-water-heritage-trail.html.

A Unique Way of Life

Hendry County

By Jennifer Davis

Hendry County administrator

Hendry County is a quaint little place located in the interior of South Florida offering a unique way of life that is hard to find in the ever-changing blueprint of our state.

Beautiful arching oaks canopy throughout the City of LaBelle as you travel from the west coast headed east. In the same direction, the Caloosahatchee River connects to Lake Okeechobee, where the City of Clewiston is located, offering world-class angler and fishing opportunities.

Farm to table restaurants, local coffee shops, waterfront dining, and, just recently, a micro-brewery are among many opportunities to sit, relax and enjoy a great meal with family and friends. Specialty boutiques, spas and outdoor excursions offer a unique menu of services and shopping that you will only get in a special place such as this.

Agriculture being the number one economic driver fosters a beautiful environment and a breath of fresh air for those coming from the congested surrounding cities. With a population currently just over 40,000, the balance of growth and quality of life are steadily improving. Not only is our soil rich for agricultural, so is our history in Hendry County. Visit one of our museums to experience for yourself the rich culture of this area. Come by water, land, or air. The Okeechobee Waterway runs from coast to coast and comes right through the heart of our beautiful county. Come by air to one of our two airports, located in Clewiston and LaBelle. You can dock or fly and dine at many locations throughout Hendry.

Growth brings opportunities, and leaders in the community are working hard to provide the proper infrastructure requirements and other tools required to grow in a meaningful way. It is equally important to us to maintain our heritage and what makes us unique. The recipe is still in the making, but the finished product will undoubtedly be one that you will not forget.

Come visit Hendry County and see for yourself. We would love to have you.

Clewiston's Business Scene

Clewiston Chamber of Commerce

By Hilary Hyslope

Executive director, Clewiston Chamber of Commerce

Welcome to Hendry County! The Clewiston Chamber of Commerce invites you to discover “the liquid heart of Florida” and all that Hendry County has to offer. Situated on the southern shores of Lake Okeechobee, “America’s Sweetest Town” has a variety of businesses and amenities. Clewiston is best known for two things, our agricultural contributions and bass fishing! Here at the Chamber of Commerce, we know that our town is so much more. While we take tremendous pride in our agricultural heritage and our wonderful gem (Lake Okeechobee), it is our people and our community as a whole that has given us the title of “America’s Sweetest Town!”

Our economic climate here in Clewiston is absolutely poised for growth. Our largest employer, U.S. Sugar, boasts employment for roughly 2,500 people; other key employers include the Hendry County School District, Hendry Regional Medical Center, Walmart and a wide variety of small businesses and banking institutions. We have several exciting large projects on the horizon, including the expansion of Airglades International Airport (AIA). AIA’s location in our rural community and its proximity to U.S. 27 make it an ideal spot for an international perishable cargo hub. With spaces also available in the City of Clewiston’s Industrial Park, we are eager for the expansion that has historically shown to be moving inland in South Florida. Here in Clewiston we consider ourselves “out in the middle of EVERYWHERE.” We have many of the amenities of the larger cities but maintain the rural, small-town feel we have come to love.

The heart of our community is Lake Okeechobee. “Lake O,” as the locals call it, has fostered the careers of several bass fishing legends. Scott Martin, a Clewiston native, was awarded the 2015 FLW Angler of the Year award and was chosen to lead the USA Bass team competing in South Africa in 2017. Once you get out on Lake O, you’ll be hooked!

The services and amenities that you will find here in Clewiston are sure to meet all of your needs. Start your day with a morning walk on the Lake Okeechobee Scenic Trail (LOST). The trail sits atop the Herbert Hoover Dike surrounding the lake and built for flood protection. For this reason, the trail offers a grand vantage point to view everything from the scenic lake to agricultural landscapes. From there, swing on in to the Chamber of Commerce, where we can direct you to a number of activities including airboat tours, fishing expeditions, swamp buggy rides or farm tours. If you are looking for an educational treat, visit the Clewiston Museum or the Seminole Tribe of Florida’s Ah-Tah-Thi-Ki Museum. Looking to pamper yourself, we have a variety of local day and medical spa options. Dining here in Clewiston — well, that’s a tough choice. Breakfast, lunch or dinner, we’ve got you covered with a large variety of choices. We even have a local hangout or two for those night owls!

Whether you are relocating, starting a new business or vacationing, Clewiston is sure to be just the right fit for you! We here at the Clewiston Chamber of Commerce would love to see you stop in.

Tour guide Bobby Pearce hands one guest a chunk of sugarcane “gum” after he used his cane knife to remove the hard, woody husk — a good dose of fiber to start the day right, to be washed down minutes later with orange juice. Regular Raisin’ Cane Tours are operated by U.S. Sugar Corporation in cooperation with the Clewiston Museum and the Chamber of Commerce.

LaBelle - We're Growing!!

Greater LaBelle Chamber of Commerce

By Diane E. Fidanza

Executive director, LaBelle Chamber of Commerce

What comes to mind when you think of LaBelle? A quiet, little town nestled alongside the Caloosahatchee River that has huge, live oak trees lining the streets? Yes... LaBelle is that, and so much more.

LaBelle has abundant land, natural beauty, and friendly people. It's only natural that developers would take notice, and they have. Both commercial and residential developers are seeing this potential, and are excited by it.

As more people wish to settle in LaBelle the need for new housing becomes more and more apparent. Several housing developments are under construction, with more in the planning stages. D. R. Horton is building single family homes in the Port LaBelle area. Belle Arbor will feature single family homes and is being constructed next to the LaBelle Brewery. City Village, another residential community, is being built between Lee Street and Missouri Street. And, hoping to fill the need for apartments, Oakwood Terrace, a 56 unit apartment complex, is being constructed at the intersection of Lee Street and Oklahoma Street.

With more people living here the need for medical care is sure to increase. Hendry County Regional Medical Center, as well as Lee Health, already serve the community. However, to assist with this expanding growth a new family practice has opened. Dr. Valaree Luck, and her staff, operating as Three Oaks Family Practice, is located in the Wallace Center on Cowboy Way. Ground is also being broken for the new walk-in Medi-Center which will be constructed next to K & M Drugs.

Large Corporations such as the 7-11 Corporation have also taken notice of this growth in LaBelle. They have constructed a large, new facility on South Main Street, and they have plans for another site to be constructed on East Hickpochee Ave. where SeaCoast Bank had previously been located.

Restaurants are also growing and developing. Short Cakes Sweet Shop & Bakery, a local favorite for sweet treats, has re-located to the LaBelle Airport on Cowboy Way. This new location allows them to have inside seating for their guests, as well as to expand their menu. They join Two Peas Café, The Forrey Grill, The Quart House Restaurant, as well as others, who serve delicious meals. Another existing business, Sub-Way Sandwich Shop, has built a new building on the corner of Hickpochee Ave. and Lee Street. This building will not only be their new location, it will also have spaces available for other businesses to rent.

A quick meal everyone seems to enjoy is pizza, and LaBelle residents agree. Pizza is very popular here in LaBelle. A long time favorite is Sal Cal Pizza on S. Main Street. There are also several other chain pizza shops, and we can now add Domino's Pizza and Pappa John's to that mix of existing pizzeria's.

These, and many other businesses, are the recent growth here in LaBelle. Our area does have a great deal to offer, and this is why growth is happening to the North, South, East and West of our community.

The LaBelle Chamber of Commerce, and its approximately 250 members, is excited and encouraged by this growth. We look forward to LaBelle's future with eager anticipation!

Airglades Airport

Jet Fueling the Economy in 2021

By Lillie B. Rodriguez

President & Airport Manager, Airglades International Airport

In the heart of Florida, Hendry County will soon welcome a first-of-its-kind international airport cargo hub to its agriculture region: Airglades International Airport (AIA).

Airglades International Airport (AIA) will be the first privatized commercial cargo airport in the United States and bring efficiency and innovation to the trade and logistics industry of South Florida. Strategically located on US HWY 27, a logistics corridor in South Florida and approximately 87 miles west of Miami, the airport, once completed, will be situated on more than 3,000 acres, will include a new 10,000 foot runway and a one-stop shop perishable cargo complex to send and receive perishable goods to all Latin American cargo hubs. The result will be shorter flight times for cargo airlines, reduced travel distances and less congestion for semi-trailer trucks. Additionally, other perishable users, customs/USDA inspectors, importers and growers will also gain a streamlined logistics chain as the new project will consolidate customs locations for timely product inspection and result in less wait time on the tarmac. Once completed, the Airglades Airport expansion will help to reduce delays of domestic shipments of temperature and time sensitive goods, which in turn leads to less product spoilage and longer shelf life for commodities such as fresh cut flowers, produce, seafood and other perishable items sold throughout the United States.

This unique and exciting project presents the region with significant new economic opportunity. Airglades will be a game changer for Hendry County and will not only create jobs for nearby families, but will also increase local tax revenues and diversify the region's economy by adding global trade, air commerce and logistics to its existing portfolio. During construction, the project is expected to create more than 10,000 temporary jobs and, when completed, an estimated 1,700 long-term, sustainable jobs for the future. Airglades will be a benefit to the entire Hendry area, as the county offers abundant and affordable land for warehousing, distribution centers, and other businesses that serve and support the perishable cargo industry.

What's next?

With the support of the local community and perishable cargo industry, we are well on our way to achieving the Airglades vision and are diligently working to complete the privatization approval, secure project financing, and solidify user agreements by the end of the 3rd quarter of 2021 in order to meet the project's anticipated completion date in late 2023.

For more information, please visit our website at www.airglades.com. We'd love to hear from you! Your comments, suggestions and even high-fives are welcomed.
